New Route Given "Flying Colonel" Would Have Shorter Water Jump

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife today were asked to blaze a new trail—a trail to be followed by commercial aviation between the United States and Asia—in their proposed flight from New York to Peiping, China.

The request was made by James Wickersham, delegate in congress from Alaska, who transmitted to Lindbergh maps of the route which, he says, aviation experts in Alaska believe will be the future airway to Asia.

Small Water Jump.

The route, which would take the Lindberghs from New York to Hazelton, British Columbia, Fairbanks and Nome, Alaska, and into Siberia, can be made wtih an over-water jump of but 56 miles, Wickersham said. It is regarded by aviation experts in Alaska as far superior to the Aleutian Island route, at first reported to be Lindbergh's choice, he added.

Wickersham said:

Former Ambassador To Germany And Great Britain Commencement Speaker

GRADUATES HEAR WAR DEBT REVIEW

Claims World Will Not Profit Through Germany's Complete "Breakdown"

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, June 9.—Grave warning that the world would not profit through Germany's "complete breakdown;" The contention that all nations, and not America alone, should share in the remission or suspension of Germany's reparation payments and the frank statement that "the Allied peoples are not groaning under the burden of what they owe us" featured an address by Alanson B. Houghton, former ambassador to Germany and Great Britain, at the commencement exercises of the Carnegie Institute here today.

Especial significance was attached to Ambassador Houghton's address, coming as it did closely on the heels of the British-German discussions at Chequers, and only a few weeks before the departure of Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for Europe where the question of a war debt moratorium is receiving close attention.

Rests Upon Germany

Deploring as "a misunderstanding of the facts" the argument that the Allied nations are carrying a heavy burden of debts to the United States, Ambassador Houghton said:

"They pay us nothing. They act merely as transfer agents, and pay us out of the reparation payments they have forced Germany to pay them. The burden of our war debts rests directly upon the German people."

The speaker traced the war debts

HOUGHTON SPEAKS TO TECH STUDENTS ON DEBT QUESTION

problem from its inception. The war, he said, had been paid for in part as it went along. With gradual exhaustion of resources the weaker nations turned to the stronger for support, he pointed out.

"France turned to Britain with the demand that financial aid be given her or she could not continue the struggle," he said. "Later, Britain, having pledged or sold her foreign securities and her credit being largely exhausted found herself in difficulties.

America Drawn In

"And then, fortunately for them, America was drawn into the war's fiery orbit and her stores of wealth made available to the Allied Powers. Eighteen months later came the Armistice. The cannon ceased to road. The central powers acknowledged defeat."

The Allied powers, he continued, acted on the theory that as Germany had wantonly brought on the war, Germany must bear the guilt and pay the cost. He decried the assessment of "fantastic" sums against the German people and declared the sums were so far beyond possibility of payment that they represented "rather a measure of hate than of financial reality."

He interpolated the dry observation:

"Hate, as it happens, is not a measure of capacity to pay."

Ambassador Houghton termed "not wholly ingenuous" the contention of the Allied nations that, as America and the Allies had been waging war in common, the United States had no moral right to ask repayment.

No Agreement

"In the arrangements subsequently worked out," he said, "Britain, France and the others, by making the sums owing us a part of the German reparation payments, simply transferred to Germany the whole burden of their indebtedness to us, and inferentially at least, made their payments to us conditional upon Germany's payment to them.

The United States, he said, has never agreed to the arrangements, maintaining that "those who borrowed from us, and not a third party are responsible to us for payment."

"So far no difficulty has arisen," the speaker said. "Germany has made the necessary payments to her creditors. The United States has been paid by them in turn. And there, at the moment, the matter rests. Whether, in case of German default, the Allied Powers either would pay us, or could pay us, we do not know. The final responsibility has not been fixed."

Share Responsibility

He concluded:

"I can think of no good to the world which would come from Germany's complete break-down. I do not like to think of the possible effect on western civilization of Central Europe in social chaos. But of this I do feel sure, such events, would not aid us, or the other nations, towards economic recovery.

"While the responsibility is not ours alone, we share in it. If Germany is to be afforded relief, by the remission or suspension of her reparation payments for two years or five years, or until her economic and financial situation is sufficiently improved to enable her again to take up the burden of those payments without probably collapse, that relief must be afforded by all the nations concerned and not by America alone.

"We should be prepared, if the other nations are ready, to make our contribution. I am not sure that we are so prepared. I am sure only that we ought to be."

Travel Club To Meet Thursday

A meeting of the Travel club will be conducted Thursday afternoon of this week at 3:30 in the children's auditorium of the New Castle free public library, according to announcement this morning by Miss Alice Joyce, the children's librarian.

"Germany" will be the country visited.

Orders Investigation

Pittsburgh, June 9.—Acting District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt today ordered an investigation into the alleged brutality used by coal and iron police Sunday in arresting James Acushey, 61, and his son, Robert, 27, striking miners.

Langfitt said:

The son was found guilty on a disorderly conduct charge and ordered to pay the costs of prosecution. Charges against the father were dropped.

For a month following June 15 Corona Borealis (northern crown) is almost directly over head in the evening sky. The Corona is located about 1½ hours east of Arcturus by 27 degrees north. Corona possesses no individual outstanding stars, but the graceful crown-like arrangement of its delicate gems, like the Pleiades, attracts the eye. The special name for the brightest star located in the front of the crown is Alphecca. Between Vega, farther to the northeast, and Corona, is the Square of Hercules, containing the famous "Globular Cluster of Hercules." The Cluster is located on the west side of the Square, one-third way down from the upper star.

LINDBERGH ASKED TO FLY NEW ROUTE ON WAY TO CHINA

Alaska, over 56 miles of the upper end of the Bering sea and into Kamchatka, in Siberia, and thence south to China and Japan. He could follow the Russian railway route into Europe.

"The army round-the-world fliers went up the Alaskan coast and across the Aleutian Islands to Japan.

No Glaciers.

"Aviation experts in Alaska believe the former will be the airway of the future to Asia. The course is over great basins. There are no glaciers, no water except for the short jump over the Bering sea. The land is for the most part level and landings can be made easily. There are fewer storms than along the Aleutian Island route. Being the great circle route, it is shorter.

"Col. Lindbergh would contribute greatly to the future development of aviation by taking this route. Alaska is air-minded. There are airplane routes from Fairbanks to all parts of Alaska, and there are fewer accidents in proportion to the number flying than in the United States. We believe we will have regular routes to Asia and Europe in the future."

Would Be Safer.

The proposed route, he said, is believed to be the path of migration from Asia to America in pre-historic days.

From New York to Fairbanks, Alaska is 3,260 miles and from Fairbanks to Tokio is 3,510 miles. The latter distance, however, includes an over-water jump, which could be avoided.

Wickersham believes the route he suggests would be much the safer for Col. Lindbergh and his young wife, who will be his co-pilot.

Dr. Brill says Lincoln was a schizoid-maniac. Now if only moderns can find out how to cause the malady.

PINCHOT TO ABOLISH INDUSTRIAL POLICE

to the property of their employers.

The governor said, in re-announcing his campaign promise, that he believes such watchmen can handle adequately the work now done by the industrial police.

Executive Order

The move to abolish the force by executive order follows failure of the legislature to agree upon any measure creating a substitute for the industrial police force. The house defeated the governor's own bill to that end and the senate refused to agree to the form in which the Musmanno Property Guard Bill passed the lower house.

The governor's intention will automatically terminate the commissions now held by 1050 industrial policemen, all employed by industrial concerns.

"My platform pledge which I repeated all over Pennsylvania was to abolish the coal and iron police," the governor today asserted. "I said repeatedly that no matter what the action of the legislature there would not remain a single coal and iron policeman on July 1. That pledge will be carried out to the letter. Orders to that effect were issued long ago."

Ideas Not Amplified

The governor refused to amplify his ideas on the handling of industrial disorders other than to say that they "would have to be taken care of by the authorized agencies of the state government."

Opponents to the Musmanno Bill during the fight on it in the senate pointed out that if the industrial police force is abolished a sheriff may deputize any number of men he desires to serve during a disorder. Under that system, the county and not the company would pay for their services.

Under the resolution creating the committee, wide powers to summon and interrogate witnesses are conferred. Representatives of voting machine companies and possibly their salesmen will be called to testify and county commissioners of some districts may be called.

Whether the committee will try to complete its investigation by sitting on consecutive days or by holding hearings several days a week will be decided at the organization meeting this afternoon, Sen. Harris said.

Y. M. C. A. SWIMMING LESSONS

AT the Y. M. C. A. pool in the headquarters on the public square the Y officials today began another compaign for a short time in which boys who do not know how to swim can secure free instruction.

In these annual campaigns the aim of the Y is to teach all lads in the city in a certain age span, how to swim. Every year several hundred take advantage of the instruction and benefit by it.

This year will be no exception. It should not be. Every boy who is eligible should take advantage of the chance to secure this instruction. There is no dispute over the fact that all boys—and girls too—should know how to swim, and how to take care of themselves in the water. It may mean the difference between life and death at some time.

Learn to swim!

ANOTHER CLASS GRADUATES

TONIGHT at the Ben Franklin Junior high school auditorium, another class will be graduated from New Castle Senior high school, a class of 206, making a total of nearly 400 graduates turned out in the school year.

For some of those who receive their diploma tonight, it will mark the conclusion of their days in school. To others it is but another step in their course of education.

But, whatever may be the future lot of the students, all are deserving of congratulations for having successfully completed their high school course.

There should be no need to emphasize to any in the class that they continue their study and their effort to secure an education, if it is at all possible. Never has there been a time when it meant more to a young man or woman than in this present era.

Members of the class of 1931, go on to college and schools of higher education if you can!

THE DANGER OF WAITING

Life can play foul jokes on people some times.

In a large middle-western city there was a grocer, who worked very hard and saved his money religiously so that his old age would be provided for.

For 50 years he stuck to his grocery store. He worked and saved too hard to have very much fun, but he was looking forward to the day when he could retire. Then he would have his fun. He would have money and leisure, and he would make up for the years of hard work.

Well, he finally retired—money in the bank, an assured income, a nice home, everything he needed. "Now," he told his friends, "I am going to enjoy life."

And just 24 hours after he had retired he dropped dead.

If a novelist put that in a book we wouldn't believe it. We would say that things don't really happen that way, and we would accuse the novelist of straining too hard for an ironic effect.

But life takes queer twists that are not permitted to good fiction. It all happened, precisely as it is described here; and all we can do is admit that there are times when wisdom and prudence are horribly confounded.

As a matter of fact, this sort of thing happens fairly often—in a little different way. Not many people who have prepared for a carefree and leisurely old age die just as they begin to taste their reward, of course; but they get cheated out of their dues, just the same. They find that leisure, after a lifetime of hard work, is boredom. They find that they have forgotten how to play. They find that the empty hours are depressing because they do not know what to do with them. They find themselves feeling that they have been put upon the shelf, and they grow 10 years older in 12 months.

Perhaps we aren't meant to be too cautious. Deferring one's happiness to the end, when one will have time and the means to take it, is risky. For most of us that gilded tomorrow will never dawn. If we don't get our happiness along the way we shall never get it at all.

That is a lesson worth learning. The real joy of living is not something that can be banked and drawn on at some future date. It has to be taken from day to day. It is compounded usually of many little experiences. The haze of an autumn afternoon over a flaming woodland; the confiding smile of a child, nestling in one's arms for a fairy tale; the smell of a clear wind as one trudges along a beach by blue water; the sudden revelation of tenderness in the eyes of a loved one; the brief, vanishing strain of a bit of music—of such things is a satisfying life fabricated. You cannot postpone them, you cannot wait for them. You must get them as you go along, or you will miss them entirely.—Standard, Excelsior Springs, Missouri.

ON REBUFFING UNFORTUNATES

How do you treat the man on the street who asks you for money?

If it is your policy to refuse ,how do you do it?

Turn him down with an angry rebuff?

Wouldn't it be just as easy to speak in a kindly manner?

At times when there is plenty of work, sympathy and kindness is wasted on those who panhandle.

It is right, in those circumstances, to suggest that the beggar, WORK.

But now many who are begging are not lazy—they can't get work.

The man who is willing to work, can't find it, and is often compelled to solicit alms or starve, is to be pitied, not censured.

The very lease you can do is to treat him kindly.

Perhaps you have never known what it is to be without food and a place to sleep and no prospect of getting money for these necessities.

If you had had such an experience you might be more sympathetic.

It is a disturbing thought to know that a few cents from one of many well fed citizens who pass, would relieve a craving for food, and to realize that if you should solicit even a small sum your request would be angrily refused.

You can at least give a kind word to the man who asks you for aid.

I'm a Perfect Father How Do I Know? Well, I Passed an Examination, But——

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I'm a Perfect Father.

How do I know? Who told me? What makes me so sure?

Well, I answered 20 questions in a magazine. I had 15 minutes to do them and I answered them all in four and a half minutes PERFECTLY. I ought to have a gold star pasted on my forehead and a medal to wear on my chest. I'm a Perfect Parent.

This is how it happened. A copy of the Parents' Magazine came into the office, and on its cover was the question, "Are You Fit to Be a Father?" . . . Any father wants to know the answer to that question, so I turned to page 33 and read the article. There were 20 questions, and for each question there was a choice of four answers.

The first question was: "In training children a father should be guided by (a) instinct; (b) what his own parents did; (c) the neighbors' customs and criticisms; (d) a study of children. . . ." You take a pencil and check the one you think is right, and of course I checked "d".

I was just as clever on all the 19 other questions. I knew that a father should "begin to assume responsibility of training of children from birth, and not at 2 years, or at 5 years for boys and 10 years for girls, or at 10 years for both." I knew that "there is no one formula for bringing up children," that "regular allowances for children should depend on the family budget and the age and needs of the child." I knew that children should have "a definite period in which to do as they wish." I knew that a father should not ridicule his children, or command them harshly, and also that a stubborn child could not be (b) compelled to give in or (d) scolded, but should be (c) "given more outlet for his energies."

You can see how smart I was and that I wasn't at all surprised when I looked at the answers on page 65 and found that I was 100 per cent correct.

Its' one thing to have your head chock full of wise theories; it's something else when you are right up against life and your own personality, and the bubbling, fermenting activities of children who are living their own lives, too.

That's the real test. You can learn things with your head, you must do things with your heart. You can pick up rules with your memory; it takes CHARACTER to apply them.

By the book we are all perfect parents, and we all "know" what to do in every situation; and, in every home, in theory, the domestic machine runs smoothly. . . . But if you are coming around to inspect, please telephone ahead, so we can get things ready. It's easy to know, it's hard to do!

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

HARNESSING NATURE.

Arizona and New Mexico are two states where Man has made a tremendous struggle to make Nature work for him.

The northern portions of the states are high and mountainous. While the rainfall is not great the snows are heavy in Winter. Between rain and snow for a few months of the year the rivers are full of water. Man has harnessed and is still harnessing these waterways by the building of huge dams and diverting the waters from the artificial lakes thereby made by way of irrigation ditches and so converting an arid desert into a garden.

Out of Yuma on the road to Phoenix, Arizona, is the first of these dams and the only dam that may be seen without leaving the Highway. It is the Gillespie dam on the Hassayampa river. This river has in its course several dams and the grape fruit from the Valley is being developed to the point where it will give the Florida article a tight race. There is the Roosevelt Dam and the Coolidge Dam and in fact so many dams in Arizona that the members of the different Irrigation Districts are complaining that their supply of water is becoming too much curtailed. "Not another Dam by a damn sight, but give us a fair share of the supply from the Boulder Dam" is the battle cry of the Arizonian.

Running into Phoenix The Road leads by fields of Long Staple Cotton—Egyptian Cotton if you please. Each year the new cotton grows from the old root—there is no planting of new cotton—and each year the cotton becomes finer and richer than the year before. The Arizonian becomes very proud of his cotton as well as of his fruits and on every road entering the state are maintained Inspection Stations. No traveler can escape opening all of his baggage at these stations and on a hot day this inspection is no joke.

The purpose of these inspections is to prevent the introduction into the State of any pest. The traveller is not permitted to bring fruit, plants or seeds of any description into the state. Everything of such a nature found in any car is then and there destroyed.

They say most accidents are preventable—an' I reckon they would be, if you could begin with th' bonehead's granddads.

And accidents fill the world with woe.

Waters shall yet more wonders do,
Now strange, yet shall be true.
The world upside down shall be,

Gold shall be found 'mid stone,

And this world to an end shall come

Voyage Into Stratosphere By Balloonists Thrills World

Perils Involved Inspire Tributes To Heroism, While Records Obtained Are Credited As Beginning Of New Contributions To Science

Balloons again came into their own as a result of the record altitude reached by the Belgians, Prof. August Piccard and Charles Kipfer, in their flight into the upper atmosphere. The use of a sealed aluminum gondola with a supply of oxygen game limited protection for life and success in the face of possibilities of failure thrilled the world. Hope of new understanding of cosmic rays is expressed by scientists, as reflected in the press.

The TOLEDO BLADE remarks: "Ten miles on the surface of the earth is a very short distance. Ten miles high and man is out of his natural element—an adventurer and pioneer on the frontiers of the infinite." The PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE quotes from European comment calling them "heroes of the stratosphere," and adds: "The title has been well earned. They may be accounted the first to pierce the earth's ceiling of atmosphere and to push out beyond the gravitational pull that confines walking mankind to the surface. It is a new triumph for science that the world pauses to honor."

"It is a great accomplishment, a magnificent one, this jaunt of Professors Piccard and Kipfer," avers the MINNEAPOLIS STAR, while the OAKLAND TRIBUNE remarks: "It is not every day that two men, known only to their limited circle, may make the population of a globe crane necks and scrutinize the heavens. They had their big day in the skies—close to the sun."

"There can be little doubt that after this one experiment more of the same kind will be made," thinks the ALBANY EVENING NEWS, concluding that "mankind has conquered his own world and now he must have other worlds to conquer." The SCHENECTADY GAZETTE declares: "Having conquered distance both over and on the earth's surface as well as under it, can anyone say positively that we shall never be able to do the same thing vertically?*If we can rise a few miles above the earth, why not 500 or 500,000? Where is the limit?" The SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS states that "those modest Belgians have promoted aeronautics, which soon will be developed further because they devised a gondola wherein men can work safely at nine or ten miles altitude."

"Now, when it becomes possible to navigate the upper air currents, which are moving most rapidly, it will be possible to attain unheard-of speeds," says the ALLENTOWN MORNING CALL, quoting the balloonist as to a possible 400 miles an hour, and believing that "science has an uncanny way of making its most startling predictions come true." The NEW YORK EVENING POST offers the judgment: "Many airplane enthusiasts have foretold the day when air liners would pass back and forth between America and Europe at a height from five to ten miles above the earth, making incredible speed because of the rarefied atmosphere. But these theories have remained theories because it was not known whether the cold and the low pressure of the stratosphere would be combated with safety and comfort for passengers. To this question Professor Piccard now returns a decided affirmative."

"The success of the feat," according to the DAYTON DAILY NEWS, "is a tribute to scientific precision, the accuracy of Prof. Piccard's calculations and the thoroughness of his preparations. He had been engaged in the preliminaries of the exploit for some time. Doubtless to many the idea seemed as visionary as the rocket dreams of the German inventors. The failure of an earlier attempt, when the balloon could not even lift the equipment off the ground, did not dispel this impression. Now the feat has been accomplished to perfection. In a day when the balloon has been outmoded as a vehicle of the skyways by the airplane, it is still more striking. No airplane has ever come within a mile of this record, and the pilots who set the marks with heavier-than-air craft have usually suffered great distress from the cold, the rarefied atmosphere and the pressure. At least for purposes of scientific observation, Prof. Piccard's aluminum shell seems to have overcome these handicaps." The Dallas Journal observes that "the expedition was so daring as to seem desperate, but, like most of the modern expeditions that have succeeded, it was adequately planned and, as the results indicate, skillfully carried through."

Considering the possibilities of disaster, the BIRMINGHAM NEWS comments: "What if Piccard and Kipfer had come to the jumping-off place—that is to say, the region where the law of gravity quits functioning—and they knew precious well that the oxygen supply was rapidly being exhausted? In that dilemma, even brave men might be forgiven a sudden attack of squeamishness. Yet there were normal and sound as a nut when the good ship settled near Gurgl, and it needs no imagination to hear their throaty merriment on being delivered from the clutches of the stratosphere. Which is a reminder that it is from such stuff as these heroes are made must be commandeered passengers for the first really-truly interplanetary passenger-bearing rocket that hurtles from Earth next year or the year after. Piccard and Kipfer are in for more daring adventures. They are self-elected Its for farther explorations."

"Their revelations and any observation Prof. Piccard and his companion may have to report are of great interest to the public as well as to scientific circles," says the CHATTANOOGA TIMES. The HARTFORD TIMES states: "Professor Piccard carried delicate instruments whose registrations may have been greatly helpful from the scientific standpoint. These aeronauts risked their lives and have earned just fame. By reason of the world's almost instantaneous means of communication, millions in many lands had mental picture of the Piccard balloon. Wednesday evening, as it drifted, apparently unmanageable, at a height of two miles, toward the Alps, disappearing in the dark, feared to contain two who had perished in their lofty attempt. It was weird instance. The happy outcome of the event was a most agreeable item in the news."

"One of the purposes of the daring voyages," recalls the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES "was to study the cosmic rays which are rained on all heavenly bodies from the abysses of space. These cosmic rays, according to their discoverer, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, eminent scientist of California, have a greater penetrative power than X-rays. The theory advanced to account for this radiant energy is that the sun and all the stars are continually annihilating atoms and throwing them is going on. Dr. Millikan believes off. While this destructive process that new atoms are being built up out of hydrogen in the depths of interstellar space. The building up process manifested in the cosmic rays is proof to the eminent scientist that the Creator of all is still at work. It is unlikely that the short time Professor Piccard and Dr. Kipfer spent in the stratosphere will result in solving a problem which has puzzled the keenest minds of the world. However the Creator uses a cosmic rays to rebuild the universe, and man may be on the verge of a thrilling discovery."

Just Folks

FREE DAYS

Here and there along the years
A day for comradeship appears;
A day apart from humdrum care
And all the burdens mortals bear,
When man may walk with whom he choose
And turn away from local news
To talk to nature's towering trees
And every lovely sight he sees.

A passing bird may catch his eye
And he may stand to watch it fly,
Or, lured by daisies, follow far
When crowds of brown-eyed Susans are;
Later to find a running stream
With rays of golden light agleam,
Nor ever stop to count the cost
Of precious moments wholly lost.

Men busy at their work forget
The beauty of the violet,
The majesty of trees; the charm
Of cattle browsing on a farm.
And likewise fail to keep in mind
The glory of their fellow-kind,
Because the soul is little known
Where barter rules the world alone.

But comes the day occasional, when
A man may be himself again.
And walk and talk and play with friends,
From dawn until the sunset ends.
Then beauty is his only goal,
Sky, earth and stream delight his soul,
And, drawn from petty cares afar,
He learns how fine life's splendors are.

Rules For Summer Study For Pupils In New Castle Outlined

Rules for summer study for pupils in the New Castle Schools have been set down by the superintendent Dr. C. C. Green. In some cases where pupils have failed in their studies during the year, tutoring in the summer gives them credits enough that they can be passed to the next class in the fall, without conditions.

The rules follow.

1. A pupil who has failed in a subject may employ a tutor during the summer upon the recommendation of the teacher in whose class the failure occurred and upon the approval of the principal of the school.
2. All tutors must be approved by the principal of the school in which the failure occurred.
3. Tutors shall not be approved for advanced work above the eighth grade.
4. No pupil shall be tutored in more than two subjects, with the expectation of credit, during the summer vacation.
5. Permission to study under a tutor shall not be granted if, in the judgment of the teachers involved, the subject should be repeated in the regular manner.
6. A pupil who has received instruction under a tutor during the summer vacation shall report for an examination on the first day of the ensuing term, said examination to be given by the teacher under whom the failure occurred. The examination questions shall be prepared and the papers graded by that teacher; and the entire procedure shall be approved by the principal of the school involved.
7. When a pupil's final report is filed at the close of the school year the record should indicate Credit, Condition, or Failure.
8. It shall not be considered good professional practice for a teacher to accept employment as tutor by a pupil who has failed in her class.
9. All tutors must be certificated in the work in which they give instruction, and the principal shall satisfy himself that they are thoroughly familiar with the requirements.
10. At the conclusion of the work of a tutor she shall present to the principal a detailed report of the number of lessons, the time given to each lesson, the content covered, and a recommendation for or against the allowing of credit following an examination.

Dosing With Cathartics Not Helpful

Self-Treatment May Lead To Colitis, Says Dr. Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The person with colitis or irritable colon has not infrequently given it to himself. The inside of the colon or large intestine is quite sensative and easily injured; it will not stand prolonged insult by mechanical irritation or chemicals whether the chemicals be epsom salts or oil in enemas. Yesterday we pointed out the possible dangers of excessive douching of the large intestine, especially when carried out by the patient on his own body without medical supervision.

Today we discuss an even commoner habit which is quite as fraught with potential harm—the habitual dosing with cathartics.

Perhaps the best way to make the point clear is to recite the history of an actual patient. A man aged 40 came to a clinic complaining of discomfort all over his abdomen, and constipation. Curiously, when he was questioned about his constipation, he said that he had several evacuations a day, but that what he meant by the word "constipation" was that he never felt as if his intestines were entirely empty. He had been in the habit of dosing himself with epsom salts for years.

At first he felt relief from the use of the salts, but a year before consulting the clinic doctor he began to feel the sensation of not being cleaned out and increased his dosage of salts until he was taking some every two hours in the daytime and was consuming the staggering amount of nearly half a pound a day. The insides of his intestines were red and spongy and covered with small white spots, probably beginning ulcers.

On treatment which consisted in taking him entirely away from the epsom salts and giving him a bland diet of milk and eggs and vegetable purees, he was restored to normal feelings of health and comfort.

Such a story, which is by no means as uncommon as it sounds as if it should be, shows how excessive anxiety to keep the colon empty actually leads to colitis. In fact, the cathartic habit, and the enema habit, and roughage diets are the commonest causes of colitis.

There is one good rule for those who have the necessity for a cathartic. That is, take a carthartic only on the night of the day when you have not had an evacuation. There is no question that many people do need a cathartic occasionally, or even fairly regularly, but is is very easy to slip into the habit of taking too much, and of taking a cathartic too often.

For several reasons, perhaps, the best cathartic to take for regular use is fluid extract of cascara sagrada. Being in liquid form, the exact dosage can be measured more accurately than if in pill form. For some people one pill is not enough and two pills are too many. With liquid cascara and a dropper you can get the exact number of drops which will produce a formed evacuation without griping and irritation. For you it may be 21 drops, for somebody else in the household 19 drops, or 26 drops; but in every case the individual can get the exact dose needed. It should be taken at night as it requires about 8 hours to work. And it should be taken only on the night of the day when there has been no evacuation.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Select Religious Books At Library

Library And Ministers Select Group Of Excellent Books; Librarian Writes Of One

The New Castle free public library, in cooperation with the library committee of the Ministerial Association, has selected a group of outstanding books dealing with religious subjects and have put them on the shelves of the library building to be used by borrowers.

In order that library borrowers may have clear ideas of the type of books included in the selected group, Miss Alice Sterling, librarian, has written short reviews of several, and has submitted one today for publication. It follows:

"The book entitled 'The Christian Ideal for Human Society' by Dr. Alfred E. Garvie is one of the group of books selected and deals with the place Christianity occupied in the moulding of human society. The author was schooled in the universities of Scotland, England and Germany and holds a important teaching position in London.

The author deals with the underlying moral principles of Christianity and shows their application to all the problems of human life. It treats of the great movements that have affected the western world throughout the Christian period.

The scope of the book is personal equation of Christianity, with its effect on the family, social relations, education, industry, culture, citizenship, national and international relations.

State Policemen Have Big Belgian Shepherd

State Police Are Teaching Dogs Tricks Which May Come In 'Handy'

ACCOMPANIES POLICE ON THEIR NIGHT TRIPS

Although it is not generally known it is a fact that the State police, Henecheck, Richards and Gaceloskey, stationed here, have a faithfully canine ally in "Connie," a Belgian Shepherd which accompanies them on night tours of the rural sections where the state policemen have been searching for chicken thieves and other persons who violate laws.

The Belgian Shepherd is black in color and weighs 55 pounds. "Connie" as the dog has been named by Policeman Tony Richards, has been given a month of tutoring and he has become so proficient in following instructions that he accompanies the State police on night trips.

"Connie" will sit down, get up, bark, retrieve articles at their command. At present Policeman Richards is tutoring the dog to give pursuit and hopes in a short time to teach the dog to grasp a person's trouser leg, throw the man to the ground and stand guard.

The dog is a fine type of Belgian Shepherd. Evidently he was cut out for police work as the history of his presence at State Police substation says he jumped in their machine one day and refused to leave. The police have taken good care of the dog and he wears a license.

Persons in the rural district can see the dog trotting alongside the mounted State police while they are on patrol. The horses at the barn have taken a liking to the dog and apparently have become pals during the past month. The State police prize the dog and intend to continue teaching him police tricks.

Man Held In Los Angeles Jail Admits He Killed Arnold Rothstein

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—Authorities were inclined today to doubt the "confession" of Matthew Guidera, 22, prisoner in the county jail, that he killed Arnold Rothstein, New York gambler, in November, 1928.

Guidera wrote that he shot Rothstein when the underworld leader paid him only $1,000 for delivering two truckloads of dope from New York to Chicago whereas he had been promised $100,000. Guidera's story was weakened because he had Rothstein being shot in a cafe on Broadway instead of at a hotel.

(International News Service).

HARRISBURG, June 9.—Head of the greater Pennsylvania council since the present administration took office, Dr. Charles E. Pinchot yesterday named Dr. Reitell director of the council, which was created by the last legislature to study the natural resources of the state, seek new markets for its products and work for advancement of all state activities.

May Have To Issue Bonds For Sewer

Treser Says Construction Cannot Start Until Money Available

Council yesterday instructed city engineers to prepare plans and specifications for a storm stwer to drain the Wilmington Avenue 'flood' section but Councilman Treser stated today that actual construction could not be made unless the council passed a bond issue. He said the city at present has no available funds with which to curb the water nuisance. The water would be carried off via a storm sewer from Euclid Avenue to the Shenango river.

Recently council placed in committee an ordinance which if passed would increase the bond indebtedness $100,000. The money would have been used for improvements. Councilmen Treser and Genkinger are reported were in favor of adopting the ordinance but none of the other council would commit themselves definitely as to how they would vote if the bill came up for final passage. Hence it has reposed in committee.

Guilty On Only Part Of Charge

Jury Finds Ralph Morrison Not Guilty On Two Counts Of Indictment

Not guilty on two counts of the indictment and guilty on one count was the verdict in the case of the commonwealth against Ralph Morrison, charged on the first count with failing to stop, on the second with failing to give his address, and on the third with failure to render assistance. The verdict was not guilty on the first and third counts and guilty on the second.

The case grew out of an auto accident in the seventh ward when Morrison drove his car into the rear end of a moving van, which was parked on the street. Mrs. Dora Weatherby, who was riding in the car with him, was severely injured. The evidence showed that a physician happened along just at the time of the accident, and while he was attending to the injuries of Mrs. Weatherby, Morrison, who was also injured, was sitting by the roadside in a dazed condition.

Mrs. Weatherby was rushed to the hospital at once and Morrison had no time and was in no condition to do anything for her at the time. He was taken to his home, and believing that he had 24 hours in which to report the accident, was put to bed. He testified that he intended to report the accident in the morning.

There is still a case pending against Morrison in which the charge is driving while intoxicated.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 9.—The submarine Nautilus today was well started on the first leg of its journey to the North Pole. Radio messages picked up here reported the Arctic bound submarine 800 miles at sea.

The undersea craft is carrying Sir Hubert Wilkins and his expedition to London where they will make a short stop before moving on to Spitzbergen and the North Pole.

Late today the Nautilus, which has been proceeding almost directly east from the New England coast, will turn northward in her course, following more closely the sea lanes followed by ocean liners.

Annual Learn-To-Swim Campaign Of "Y" Started This Afternoon

Enthusiasm Marks Beginning Of Ten Days' Instruction For Boys

Enthusiastic over an opportunity to learn how to swim, presented by free swim coupons published in The News during the past week, approximately 400 boys, 10 years and over, this afternoon flocked to the Y. M. C. A. to register for the annual 10-day "Learn-to-Swim" campaign.

The association received over 300 coupons during the past week and about 100 boys brought coupons this afternoon. During the morning and afternoon scores registered with W. A. Thomas, boys' work director, who is in charge of registration.

Swimming instructors who have volunteered to assist in teaching the beginners to swim were on hand this afternoon. The volunteer instructors are: Joe Bara, "Y." life-saving and swimming examiner; Roger Meermans, life-saving and swimming examiner; James Ryhal, senior life saver; Jack Herbert, Red Cross life-saving examiner; Stanley Mackiewcz, senior life saver; Walter Adamsyk, senior life saver.

Publication of the coupons good for 10 swims was concluded with Monday's issue of The News. This afternoon the instructors were prepared to start their work of instruction. The goal for which the pupils and swim experts will strive is the 60-foot swim unassisted.

Last year the local "Y." aided 134 persons to learn how to swim. One hundred and 10 people passed the 40-foot test and 50 passed the 30-foot unassisted test.

The first class began today at one p. m. Registration continued throughout the afternoon. Boys had been requested by the association directors to be at the building between the hours of 12:30 and 1:30 for registration.

Optimism Needed In Present Crisis, Dr. Graham Tells Westminster Class

Noted Alumnus Of College Speaks On "Progress Meets A Detour"

Seventy-Seventh Annual Commencement Exercises Are Held Monday

(Special to The News.)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 9.—Speaking on the subject "Progress Meets a Detour", Dr. Ben G. Graham, alumnus of Westminster and superintendent of the Pittsburgh schools, told the 102 members of the Westminster college class yesterday that optimism is needed in the present crisis in human affairs.

"In difficult problems, pessimism will not help," Dr. Graham said. "There is a need of optimism and faith. The thing which has marked us most as a people is that leadership can rise to the top and lead, and leaders have always risen to take us out of every time of trouble."

Dr. Graham spoke to the seniors concerning three great problems which will confront them as citizens of the world. The high standard of American living versus the present economic crisis and its threat to lower the standard; the fact that law takes a long time to catch up with progress; and unemployment were the three problems which the speaker discussed.

Starting with the remarkable development by law of high moral standards in the United States, Dr. Graham pointed out that there is also inherent a love for personal liberty. These two often clash, with the result that we have a problem.

"When the rapid march of progress takes place, we meet a detour on the way. Order has not been able to keep up with progress," the speaker said. "Underworlds flourish because men who vote for high standards of living are unwilling to abide by the laws they themselves make. There is an obligation upon young citizens to obey the laws.

"In consequence of the rapid development of industry, the order set up by law lags behind," he pointed out. "Government has been extremely reluctant to do anything about unemployment. It is a governmental and legal obligation."

Salutatory Speech.

Miss Lauretta Fox, Clarion, Pa., in her salutatory address, showed how a knowledge of science has changed her outlook on life and the outlook of modern civilization. She pleaded with her clasmates to "use a fourth dimension formula" if they would be successful.

Travis French, New Castle, valedictorian, spoke on "The Tenth Generation." Starting with a story about a millionaire who wanted to insure economic independence to the tenth generation to follow him, Mr. French pointed out that such a plan is no good. "The only way you can endow the present generation and those to come is to give your money to churches, colleges and institutions for the fostering of culture and learning," he stated.

In his address to the graduating class, Dr. W. Charles Wallace suggested that the graduates take with them one text as a motto: "Wherefore, whatsoever things ye do, whether you eat or drink, do all to the glory of God."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Sidelights On Westminster Commencement Activities

The Rev. John Cameron, Lisbon, O., "gang leader" of the class of 1901 which cavorted like a group of freshmen, tried to raffle off a fur-lined bath-tub for the Hillside.

W. W. McMinn, Swissvale, a star baseball pitcher back in 1901, returned for his class reunion. It was McMinn's first visit to the campus in 24 years, and he was amazed at the progress made by the college and the town.

The Rev. W. R. McMunn, who received a D. D. degree has a son in the junior class of the college.

Typical "Westminster weather" prevailed for commencement. Although rain spoiled the peace powwow and the Y. W. C. A. lawn fete or. Saturday evening, the other events of commencement were run off. There has been no rain for commencement in over 15 years.

The Rev. W. G. Felmeth, Elizabeth, N. J., who received a D. D. degree, is a graduate of New Castle high school. Rev. Mr. Felmeth did not know until he arrived Monday morning that an old grammer school chum, Dr. Ben G. Graham, was to make the commencement address.

For the first time in the history of the college, bachelor of business administration degrees were conferred. Seven students received this degree.

Two hours after commencement was over, not a graduate was to be seen. There were 320 cars parked around the college building at 1:30, but at 4:30 there was not a car to be seen. And the college town immediately settled down into its summer quietude.

Twin brothers, Richard and George Marquis; brothers, Donald and Dale Cleland; and sisters Maragret and Mary Mitcheltree, were graduated.

Miss Marion Way, Avalon who received a diploma in music, is the last to qualify for this recognition. Hereafter, only bachelor of music and bachelor of public school music degrees will be conferred.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Parents Like Experienced Instructors

Dr. Myers Praises Attitude Of Married Teacher

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Everywhere boards of public education are faced by the problems of cutting down on cost of running the public schools.

In some places it has been discovered that married teachers are employed, a part of whom have reached a pretty high salary level. In one city of a million people there arose the proposition of not rehiring the married teachers on the ground of economy. With a large number of graduates of the city school of education on the waiting list, the proposal was to use them in place of the married teachers, at the lowest salary rate, to save money.

If economy only were to be considered, why pick on the married teachers? The answer given was that fewer of the married teachers needed the income from employment. But from this angle the board of education is merely acting as an employment agency.

The parents look at the matter wholly in terms of the welfare of the school children. Experience ought to be worth a great deal. We object to employment of inexperienced teachers merely to furnish a few people jobs. Although we should not like to see teachers' salaries cut, that would be preferred to the selection of a lower quality of teacher merely to save money. Inasmuch as salaries have been based largely on amount of training and experience, there will be the temptation in many places for boards of education to hire the inexperienced and poorly trained teacher in preference to the faithful and proved, well-trained teacher.

My children have had several married women teachers. If these teachers are a good sample of married teachers they are greatly to be preferred. Their motherly attitude has been most salutary and they have the home point of view.

As teachers are being selected for next year let us hope they are chosen with the pupils as of first consideration. With a great oversupply of teachers only the best should be appointed. Whereas they should have good academic training, they also should possess those personal traits which will prove attractive to the pupils.

In choosing those to be rehired let them be first considered who will contribute most toward the mental health and personality of the pupils. Now is a good time to pray to the school superintendent to keep from the schoolroom the teacher who has a cutting, poisonous tongue, who rules, and ruins personalities, and wrecks sensitive nervous systems by shame, ridicule and sarcasm. Such a teacher is not worthy of her hire, no matter what her training and experience may have been. What do you think about it?

I shall be glad to answer, in these columns, questions addressed to me in care of this paper, provided these questions seem to be of general interest.

If you have a question you would like to have answered personally write me, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. College Honors Graduate Now Serving In Brazil

Dr. Wallace Also Given Appreciation At Meeting Of College Board

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 9.—Five people were honored at the 77th annual commencement of Westminster College yesterday afternoon in the United Presbyterian church here.

In addition to three outstanding members of the clergy: Rev. W. G. Felmeth, Elizabeth, N. J.; Rev. C. T. Littell, McDonald; and Rev. W. R. McMunn, Oakdale, a fourth man, the Rev. Thomas J. Porter, class of 1881 at Westminster, was honored with the degrees of doctor of letters.

Rev. Mr. Porter, now president of the theological seminary at Campinas, Brazil, was recommended for the Litt. D. degree at a meeting of the colllege board in the morning. He was given the degree "in absentia."

The fifth person honored was Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of the college for 14 years whose last act in this capacity was the officiating at the commencement exercises. S. B. Cunningham, acting as secretary of the board of trustees, reviewed the service Dr. Wallace has done to the college and expressed the vote of the board in appreciation of Dr. Wallace.

"If I were conferring degrees, as Dr. Wallace has just done," Mr. Cunningham said, "I should center on him some degree as doctor of devotion to duty."

Reform Flying Squadron For Coming Season

Red Cross Reorganizes Life Saving Corps For Water Emergencies

EXPERT SWIMMERS WILL BE AVAILABLE

For the sixth consecutive year, the Flying Squadron of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, composed of life saving examiners and instructors will be available for water emergencies in Lawrence county.

The Flying Squadron was formed in 1926 for the purpose of saving people from drowning and assisting in recovering the bodies of those drowned where no help was available.

Although called upon but few times in the last six years, the men and women who are members of this corps have held themselves in readiness for any emergency call, and will be ready again this summer to render help in case they are needed.

In former years, it has been customary for the Red Cross to issued a printed card with the names of the various members of the squadron on it, but because of financial conditions this year, it will be impossible to issue these cards. Persons operating camps and camping parties are asked to cut out this list and keep it for reference later on in case it is needed.

Those who have been enrolled in the Flying Squadron and who will be located at summer camps or can be reached at their homes are as follows:

Cancer And Epilepsy Under Discussion At Medical Convention

Optimism Prevails Among Doctors And Surgeons Attending Annual Sessions

"Cures For Cancer Are Increasing," Says Dr. Henry Ullmann, California

By E. L. RAWLEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—Optimism pervaded the ranks of the 6,000 eminent physicians and surgeons attending the 82nd annual American Medical association convention today regarding the progress of curative treament for cancer and epilepsy.

The war on the "great red plague" of cancer is gaining ground, Dr. Henry Johnson Ullmann, Santa Barabara, California physician, informed his fellow doctors at the symposium of the American Radium society. "Modern adequate methods of treatment, not only are prolonging the lives of patients but are effecting cures," he said. He rebuked his listeners for the "unjustified" attitude of utter hopelessness with which many regard cancer cases.

Cures Increasing

Dr. Ullmann admitted the number of cancer cases is increasing, but asserted the number of cures is increasing in like ratio. He advocated surgical and radiological treatment in the early stages of the disease.

"The percentage of actual cures among the commoner forms of cancer is being increased from year to year as physicians become more and more skilled in the use of established and proven methods," he asserted.

Alleviation of epilepsy has been found possible by "Dehydration," or existence of the patient on water, and dieting, according to the exhibit of the Boston Psychopathic hospital on display among the 170 scientific exhibits of the visiting physicians. The Boston exhibit illustrates a year's treatment of a 16-year old girl epileptic as reported by Dr. S. H. Epstein, of the Boston hospital.

Seizures Reduced

At first the patient had as many as 12 epileptic seizures a day but after several months treatment they had subsided to two and sometimes only one seizure every other day, Dr. Epstein said.

A series of clinical lectures on diseases and a variety of other topics relative to medical and surgical problems held the center of interest of the five-day conference this morning.

While papers dealing with these subjects were being read in the general sessions room at the huge municipal convention hall, the house of delegates, the governing body of the A. M. A. was holding its second session.

The question of prohibition and its effect upon the health of the nation, was reported to have been brought up before this body. The house of delegates holds all meetings in secret, but the prohibition question came up for discussion relative to the issuance of prescriptions, it was said.

Any action to be taken by the governing body on any subject, however, will not be announced until at the final business session on Thursday.

REPORTS STATE ASSEMBLY WORK

Representative Richards Tells Lions Club Of Legislation Passed

Assemblyman Bart Richards, in an address before the city's Lions club in the Elks dining room this afternoon, reported the work of Pennsylvania's 149th general assembly at Harrisburg, which adjourned about a week ago. He spoke chiefly of important legislation enacted and particularly of those measures which concerned Lawrence county or the local district.

Ballots for the club's new officers were placed in the hands of Chairman B. K. Thacker of the club's election committee today, but no announcement as to the outcome will be made until later. They voted on a nomination slate approved some time ago.

Lion Earl E. Book, chairman of the club's committee on blind work, in announcing a joint meeting of the city's service clubs scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight in his office on Neshannock avenue, invited all members of the club interested in the work to attend.

Buttons Awarded

Featuring the meeting was the presentation of lapel buttons to 11 club members, including President Earl T. Ramsey and Secretary Thomas Elliott, for achieving a perfect attendance record during the past six months.

Mr. Elliott, in the capacity of regional director, which office he also holds, presented the awards to the following:

Dr. A. H. Borland, John R. Ellison, W. H. Hodgkinson, M. V. Hyde, E. D. Marvin, Dr. W. C. Mechem, T. L. Nixon, B. K. Thacker and Dr. J. L. Reed.

Club members were also invited to attend a chicken dinner and program event of the Ladies of the Lions at the Worth Township (Butler county) grange hall, Monday evening, June 15 aat 6:30. The affair is being sponsored by the auxiliary for the men.

State To Improve 1300 Miles Of Highway In Season Says Lewis

(Special to The News.)

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 9.—More than 1300 miles of state highway are to be improved during the present season, Secretary of Highways Samuel S. Lewis declared here last night in an address. Completion of that programme, he said, will leave the state with less than 2000 miles of unimproved road.

For the first time since assuming office in January, Secretary Lewis outlined in his talk here the work laid out by the department for the 1931 construction season.

Within a few days Governor Pinchot is expected to sign the bill providing for the state to take over 20,000 miles of township roads, the secretary said. These roads will become part of the system on August 15 under the provisions of the bill.

"The highway department will be ready by mid-summer to assume the task given it by the legislature," Secretary Lewis said.

"This year we plan to improve more than 1300 miles of road on the present state highway system," the secretary added. "These roads are of earth and some of them have been on the state highway system since 1911 and 1913.

"We are getting away from the practice of replacing good roads with better ones. Last year, for example, the highway department tore up 167 miles of improved road and replaced them with a more costly type of highway at an expense of $14,500,000. The engineers tell me that with this amount of money they could have put down a hard surface on 1450 of the 3,300 miles of mud remaining on state highway system. At the close of the present year we hope that less than 2000 mud miles will remain on the present system."

Secretary Lewis said that the $10,000,000 loan from the general to the motor fund will be divided between surfacing roads on the present system and also those to be taken over August 15. Funds allocated to Pennsylvania by the federal government will permit the improvement of more than 400 miles of road in the state this year, the highway secretary said.

In addition to the more than 400 miles of road to be built this year through federal-aid the department, Secretary Lewis said, is planning to improve 822 miles of road now on the system.

"Those 1300 miles do not constitute our entire programme," Lewis continued, "we are going to build or contract for the building of 1000 miles of township road—a 20th of the total the state will take over. In other words, the residents along 2300 miles of earth roads will be lifted from the mud.

"Instead of spending $50,000 or $60,000 a mile for a comparatively short mileage of faultless boulevard we shall put down highways costing from $4000 to $8000 per mile."

Commander Booth Will Be City's Guest Thursday

Mayor Gillespie Suggests That City Show Honored Guest Special Courtesy

Details for the visit here Thursday morning between 11 and 11:30 o'clock of Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in this country have been about completed ,it was announced here today by Ensign V. Thomsen, officer in charge of the Salvation Army here.

The final arrangements for the appearance of the commander, the New York Staff band and accompanying officers were made Monday by Adjutant W. B. Fowle, special efforts officers of the Western Pennsylvania district and Staff Captain Thomas W. Malpass, Young People's secretary for the district, while in the city in conference with Ensign Thomsen.

Weather permitting Commander Booth will speak from a special platform at the southwest corner of Washington and South Jefferson streets, where about 47 years ago, Captain Nellie Keiser started the work of the army. It is just forty-five years since the father of the commander, General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, spoke in this city at the old Park Opera house, then located across the public square at the northwest corner of Washington street and North Jefferson street.

The commander is the fourth daughter of Founder General William Booth and a sister of General Bramwell Booth, the army's second leader. She as a girl assisted in the children's meetings and was commissioned Captain of "Great Western Hall" in one of London's toughest quarters. Later she was made a field commissioner and travelled extensively. She had charge of the International Training college in London and was later appointed as Territorial Commander of Canada. From there she was appointed as head of The Salvation Army in the United States and has served here for more than twenty-five years.

She is the author of several books and well known songs and is a composer of music. She was awarded the distinquished service medal by President Woodrow Wilson in recognition of the army's wartime service, in 1921 she received the honorary degree of M. A. at Tuft's college, Boston, Mass.; in 1928 the Fairfax medal for eminent efficient service was given her by the Daughters of the American Revolution and in 1930 she became a member of the "Order of the Founder". She was received in audience by the Emperor of Japan during her tour of that country three years ago and has also been received by several of our presidents and other eminent statesmen.

Mayor William H. Gillespie desires that the distinquished visitor be accorded every possible courtesy on the occasion of her visit and suggests that it would be fine if the business houses display their flags at the curb during her visit here.

Establish New Detour On Route Leading To Mercer

Highway Department Announces Detour Via Volant; Oil Several Roads

Announcement is made today by the Pennsylvania State Highway department of the establishment of a detour on the road leading from New Wilmington to Mercer, which is now under the course of construction.

The detour is by way of Volant and Leesburg over 6.4 miles of earth and 8.9 miles of concrete road, in good condition.

Oiling operations to be carried on in the district this week, include the oiling of the macadam stretch between Edenburg and Hillsville and between New Galilee and Koppel and Beaver Falls and Ellwood City in Beaver county. Bo'Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

(Central Press)

NEW YORK, June 9.—"When I notice that some novelist is bringing out his tenth book I don't bother with it," says Jonathan Cape, publisher. "I think he already has said what he had to say, and even though he may say it again very charmingly, I needn't bother."

Suppose the publishers of Scott or Dickens or Kipling or Conrad had felt that way!

You'd really expect something better than that from a man named Jonathan Cape.

BIG BUSINESS

The blocks on Orchard street, between Rivington and Delancey, down on the far East Side, are called "Wall Street" by all the pushcart men in town. Five million dollars a year down there changes hands among the curb merchants.

Yet there is no outward sign of wealth or power. The carts are loaded with what looks like the veriest trash. Pieces of cloth, hardly enough to be called remnants, scorched bottles of drugs out of a fire sale, ancient evening dresses dripping beads, dog-eared books and bits of metal.

One cart offers empty blue milk of magnesia bottles, electric light bulbs that have outlived their usefulness and second-hand tooth brushes.

The street whispers that the true business of the proprietor of this particular pushcart is to act as a word-to-mouth advertiser for an institution of the kind which further uptown is called a "speakeasy" but which Orchard street with a flair for more pungent names calls a "shock house".

PEDIGREE RACKET

The existing unpleasantness hasn't affected all lines of endeavor. Our old friend The Racketeer is still doing business, perhaps not at the old stand, but at a stand equally lucrative.

The Ancestral Husbandry Racket is the latest. Family trees (without ancestors suspended by the neck) are guaranteed for $250 and up.

The victim is promised genealogical research and publication of findings in a book sententiously called "Who's Who in Heraldry".

The ancestrally ambitious parvenu, aware of the social importance of a family tree, supplies excellent material for the ancestral husbandry racketeer, who satiates his clients' craving for none-existent forebears with a few from families possessing an abundance.

It might be called ancestral communism.

FLO'S FLAPPERS

Harken to Old Doc. Flo. Ziegfeld, descanting on his favorite topic: The Chorine:

"She is beautiful but not dumb," says The Glorifier, speaking of the modern lady of the ensemble. "Invariably now she has a more than average intelligence—she must have, to achieve success. Often she is a college graduate. Ofttimes she has quit college to go into the chorus; and generally she will have an education equal to or better than the business girl. She may have a special interest in art or literature. It isn't so long ago that the girls in one of the dressing rooms started a literary club in the form of their own circulating library.

"She has more respect for herself, this lady of the modern ensemble, and rapidly she is learning to compel respect from others. She is more dignified and takes her work more seriously than ever before.

"Ambitious for higher rewards, the first thing she considers is, 'What will get me out of the chorus?' Certainly not late hours and dissipation, she concludes, for she must keep in perfect physical condition. Not only is this essential for the strenuous dance routines she must go through every night, but the moment there are signs of plumpness or lessened agility she knows she will be replaced.

"While the season is on, therefore, she devoted herself exclusively to the stage. Instead of cruising the clubs every night and sleeping through the entire morning after, as is popularly fancied, you will frequently find her going to bed comparatively early like a good little girl. The following morning, if the weather is favorable, you may see her on horseback in Central Park.

"So, the showgirl depicted as the industrious gold digger of Broadway may be placed in the same category with the garish flapper—gone, but not forgotten."

EXTINCT TYPE

Speaking of the departed "garish flapper"—what's become of the old-fashioned girl who invariably quickened her pace and studiously gazed the other way when passing a barber shop?

Rush Work On College Campus

Grove City Building Program Well Advanced As Commencement Occurs

Grove City college's three new campus buildings now under construction, will have been in operation for some time when commencement day in 1932 comes around—a year from today. Commencement exercises there today found considerable headway made on the extensive building program.

With the new chapel under roof, workmen have commenced the interior details. It is expected that this building will be dedicated in the early fall. Progress on the science building has been steady although a part of the roof is yet to be laid.

The boys' dormitory structure, started later than the other two, reached the first floor height. It will likely be ready for occupancy some time after the first of 1932.

Battery "B" Day Planned By Post At Mt. Jackson

E. J. Watt Post, American Legion, And Civic Committee Completing Plans

MEDAL AWARDS ARE MADE IN SCHOOLS

Arrangements for the annual observance of Battery "B" Day at Mt. Jackson, were furthered at the meeting of the E. J. Watt Post No. 638, American Legion held in the post rooms at Mt. Jackson last evening.

The event will be observed with a picnic and program on Saturday, June 27, and the committee in charge composed of members of the Watt Post and citizens of the community are making preparations for one of the biggest celebrations held in some time.

It is expected to announce the name of the speaker within a few days now, when the entire program for the day will have been completed.

The event is usually held on June 28, but because the day falling on Sunday, it was set forward to June 27.

Report was made by Paul Kanengizer in charge of the Legion Medal Award at Bessemer high school which was made last evening. The medal was given to Harry Shoup, who was adjudged the best all-round boy. Mr. Kanengizer made the formal presentation in behalf of the committee.

Ed Ball gave a report of the medal award at Mt. Jackson high school, Mac Tindall receiving the award, the presentation having been made by Mr. Tindall.

Dr. F. D. Campbell of Bessemer was named chairman of a committee to supervise the work of fixing up the grounds about the Legion Hall, which will be carried out this evening and Thursday evening. It is planned to grade the lawn and to improve the approach to the building from the road.

Reports were made of the Memorial Day activities, the post having assisted in the decoration of the graves of veterans in a number of cemeteries in the vicinity of Mt. Jackson, where memorial services were carried out.

At noon a picnic dinner was served to over two hundred people in the Legion hall.

The post, with a membership of 99, expects to reach its goal of 100 members before June 15, which will again place them in the lead of all American Legion Posts in Lawrence County.

The members of the Ladies Auxiliary held their regular meeting in connection with the post meeting and made plans for a strawberry and ice cream festival on June 18 in the post rooms at Mt. Jackson.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

It is generally conceded that one of the things that best indicates the tendency of a community is the means of education afforded the younger generations. In this respect New Castle and Lawrence county have always been recognized as being progressive. Schools have been maintained in New Castle since the earliest history of the place. The first school to be opened in this place was housed in a log building, 18 by 18 feet and it was started about the year of 1804. It stood just above what is now North street and a little west of a spring which stood at that time at the foot of Shaw's Hill. The windows were made of greased paper instead of glass and in the winter times when it was necessary to keep the door closed, it was anything but an inviting place. The first schoolmaster was Robert Dickey and other early instructors were John Dickey, Richard Shearer, Joseph Thornton, Alexander Duncan, Miss Sarah DeWolf (the first lady teacher) and Matthew Calvin. In 1851, the Union school house, long known as Martin Gantz School, and now out of service was erected at a cost of $7,000. The architect of this building was J. U. Borr who made the plans and supervised the construction of the building for the enormous sum of $50. The builders were Richard Craven and Samuel T. Sippy. The school directors were William Watson, James W. Johnston, Alexander L. Crawford, William Book, J. N. Euwer and Jacob S. Quest. In 1854, the office of county superintendent of schools was created and Thomas Berry was elected as the first superintendent of schools in Lawrence county. At that there were 485 pupils enrolled in the school, it being the entire school population of the city. From these meagre beginnings, the magnificent school system of the city today with its many fine buildings, large corps of instructors and eleven thousand pupils has developed.

Boy Scout News

Leaders At Camp

Scout leaders of the Lawrence County council enjoyed the sixth session of their leaders' training ccurse at Camp John M. Phillips over the week end. This session, the last of the "minimum" grade, consisted chiefly of demonstrations of the use of the axe, scout pace and second class cooking tests. Each man cooked his own meat and potatoes over an open fire without the use of kitchen utensils.

A period was also given over to the use of the compass, and a game "compass swatting" was played to illustrate the method. It proved to be one of vigorous action and will probably be used by several troops in the test teaching. All the men tried out the measured half mile at "scout pace" and got a fine idea of what that consisted of.

In lining up the second section of this training course, the class decided it would be best to put on the outdoor work during the camping season. The next meeting date was set for Camp Phillips on Saturday afternoon and evening, July 11. This session will include periods on map-making, nature study and first class cooking work. Men are asked to be present at 2:30, daylight time, that day.

Ensign Thomsen Explains Army Relief Activity

Answers All Questions Asked At Community Chest Meeting

An opportunity was afforded Ensign V. Thomsen, officer in charge of the Salvation Army Corps of this city, at the meeting of the board of directors of the Community Chest held last night, to explain in detail the relief activities of the army. He explained that there are many departments of work within the Salvation Army, which are not clear to the public.

These are centered, in general, he explained, in three large branches. The first, is the field or corps work such as is located in New Castle; the second, the Men's Social Service Department under which comes several branches such as the "Men's Industrial Homes" of which there is a branch in Youngstown and operates trucks which call at various homes for clothing, paper, etc., the hotels, Prison work and camps and third, the Women's Service Department which includes Maternity hospitals, day nurseries, girl's boarding homes and general hospital work.

Officer Thomsen told the Community Chest Board members "how a story regarding the truck taking clothing to Youngstown had been circulating in the community and created a false impression. In the two years I have been here" said Ensign Thomsen, "no usable clothing has ever been taken away from the needy here.' He further stated that the files of the local corps were open to investigation.

Questions were asked by various members of the board and much helpful information was given to show the Community Chest the valuable co-operation service in the organization that had benefited the community.

No Registration Fee Is Charged

Delegates To County Convention To Pay No Registration Fee

EVANGELINE BOOTH TO MAKE ADDRESS

According to the custom of past years, there will be no registration fee or charge to the 93rd convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School association which is to be held at the Cathedral Thursday, June 11, morning, afternoon and evening sessions. This is nearing the hundredth convention, and in all of this time Lawrence county has never charged a registration fee. Practically every other county of the state does, but the officials of the Lawrence county association feel that the best policy is to provide the best program and speakers possible, and to encourage many Sabbath school members to attend. For this reason largely, Lawrence county has the largest attendance of any county in the state of Pennsylvania with the possible exception of Westmoreland county. Then, too, the fact that the date for the convention is set one year in advance causes other churches and religious organizations to keep this date open so that there will be no conflicting services.

At the close of the morning session, which starts at 9:30 daylight saving time, Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, will make a brief appearance at the Cathedral and greet the Sabbath school workers and members assembled. As Evangeline Booth is making her appearances on schedule her visit to New Castle must of necessity be brief, but it will be a privilege to see and hear, even briefly, this noted woman who has such humanitarian impulses.

The convention music will be in charge of John W. Owens, chorister of the First Baptist church, with Miss Elizabeth Owens at the piano and Mrs. J. L. Reed at the pipe organ. The songs to be used have been printed in the convention program, and in addition to singing by the convention assembled there will be special music interspersed. The special song festival starting at 7:45 daylight savings time, will contain chorus singing by the choir of the Third United Presbyterian church, special numbers by the quartet of the First Presbyterian church, trombone solos by Anthony Caiazza, well known local musician, a soloist from Ellwood City and other special numbers.

At the afternoon session a beautiful shield will be awarded to the women's adult class having the best percentage of attendance, based on enrollment, and at the evening session a like award will be presented to the men's adult class of Lawrence county, based on enrollment.

Program participants, morning session—Robert M. Strickler, Jr., county president. John W. Owens, song leader; Elizabeth Owens, pianist; Mrs. J. L. Reed, pipe organist; Rev. Mrs. Margaret Joshua, charge of opening devotionals; Larimer Carlisle and Frederick Taylor, representing young people people's work of Pulaski district; Miss Lillian E. Reed, Philadelphia, state children's division superintendent; Mrs. William J. Marshall, county secretary, annual report; Walter E. Myers, Philadelphia, presentation of Pennsylvania Herald; Rev. Rees T. Williams, pastor of First Congregational church, convention sermon; Evangeline Booth, head of Salvation Army in U. S.

Program participants, afternoon session—C. A. Martin, county vice-president, presiding; William McElwee, Jr., report of nominating committee; Rev. Oscar Woods, pastor of Bethany Lutheran church, report of nominating committee; State Secretary Walter E. Myers, address; J. C. Miner, treasurer's report; Louis B. Round, "Our Budget"; children's division superintendent state association, address; Rev. A. E. Driggers, pastor of First Presbyterian church of Kittanning, address; departmental conference leaders, Miss Reed, Mrs. M. E. Vaughn, Miss Margaret Walker, Mrs. Margaret Speer Gigson, Walter E. Myers, Rev. Ross M. Haverfield.

Participants, evening program—John W. Owens, in charge of song and music festival with chorus choir, quartet and trombone solo, duets and solos, from various churches; installation of officers, State General Secretary Walter E. Myers; speaker of the evening, Rev. A. E. Driggers, on the subject "America's Greatest Problem."

Many Activities Planned By The Young People's Society For The Summer

Willard and Edgar McCown, 1042 Maryland avenue, were hosts to the members of the Y. P. C. U. of the Third United Presbyterian church, in their home Monday evening for the monthly business and social meeting.

Miss Helen Kyle, president of the society was in charge and the devotional period was led by Arthur McNickle.

Plans were made for a strawberry festival, which will be held on the church lawn Friday, June 19, and on Monday, June 15, there will be a short program, consisting of a playlet and other entertainment, presented by the young people for the inmates of the county home.

Two picnics are in view for the months of July and August.

Fat Men

I don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles. If you will take one half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning for 4 weeks and cut out pastries, sugar and fatty meats—You will feel so good—so energetic and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts; it will last you 4 weeks. After you have taken one bottle the old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work—you'll sleep like a top and probably live years longer. Get Kruschen at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., New Castle Drug Co. or any live druggist in America with the understanding that you must be joyfully satisfied or money back.

W. R. Daniels of Richmond Hill, N. Y., writes: "After 2 bottles of Kruschen, I've removed 3 inches from my belt, feel 25% more active, mind is clearer, eruptions have disappeared. Am 46 yrs. old and feel 20 yrs. younger. I get up feeling 100%. Kruschen sure is great!"

2. Zebulon Pike—On The Upper Mississippi

THE RIGORS OF THE MINNESOTA WINTER THWARTED PIKE'S ATTEMPT TO LOCATE THE SOURCE OF THE MISSISSIPPI. FOLLOWING THE CHAIN OF FROZEN LAKES, HE REACHED THE SHORE OF CASS LAKE, BUT WAS UNABLE TO TRACE THE RIVER FARTHER THAN THAT.

THOUGH PIKE FAILED IN THIS QUEST, HE SUCCEEDED ADMIRABLY ON THE OTHER POINTS SET FORTH IN HIS INSTRUCTIONS. HE MADE A NUMBER OF ACCURATE MAPS, SHOWING THE BEST LOCATIONS FOR FORTS AND FILLED HIS REPORTS WITH MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION ON THE REGION.

HE CONCLUDED PEACE TREATIES WITH SEVERAL TRIBES, EXCHANGING PEACE BELTS AND SMOKING THE CALUMET WITH MANY INFLUENTIAL CHIEFS, AND GAVE THE NORTHERN INDIANS A VERY GOOD OPINION OF THE AMERICANS.

(Copyright, 1931, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

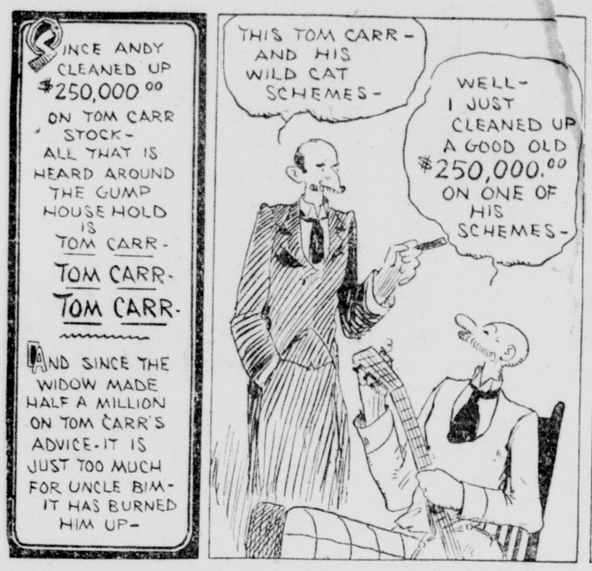

IN THE SPRING OF 1806 PIKE RETURNED TO CIVILIZATION AND DELIVERED HIS REPORT TO HIS SUPERIOR. WILKINSON WAS GREATLY PLEASED WITH PIKE'S WORK AND SHORTLY AFTERWARD SENT THE YOUNG EXPLORER UPON AN EVEN MORE IMPORTANT MISSION. . . . .

Cleveland Pitcher Allows Yanks But Three Hits As He Wins Ninth Game

SENATORS POUND BALL QUITE HARD

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 9.—Baseball without its daily hero would be like a ham sandwich without bread and today's biscuit happens to be Wes Ferrell, Cleveland's righthanded pitcher.

Wesley ambushed the unsuspecting Yanks 4 to 1 yesterday, surprising them with only three hits. His tribesmen came from behind with a rousing batting rally to score all their runs in the ninth inning.

Clarence Mitchell piloted the New York Giants to a 6 to 1 victory over the Chicago Cubs, advancing the New Yorkers to a tie with the Bruins for second place in the National league. Mitchell was touched for only five hits while the Giants peppered Malone for 12.

Athletics Win

Two homers by Jimmy Foxx plus Lefty Grove on the mound could mean nothing but another Philadelphia victory. The score was 7 to 3 and Detroit was the victim.

Four White Sox players cast as pitchers proved gluttons for punishment as Washington rapped 20 hits and humilated Chicago 18 to 4. Bluege captained Washington's clouting barrage with four safeties.

Walter Setwart pitched the St. Louis Browns out of the cellar by shutting out the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 0. The loss dumped the Ruddy Hose into the void.

Other teams did not play.

"Always Reliable"

The Municipal golfers, that is the boys who shoot around in the low 80s and upper 70s will go to Pittsburgh this year for the qualifying round in the National Public Links tourney.

Ollie West, Art Nelson and Bill Twaddle tried their luck last year at the Schenley Links and turned in good scores, but they didn't qualify.

A movement has been started to take the profanity out of golf. This is a very good suggestion and the writer awaits with interest more details of the movement. William Edwin Hall, president of the Boys' Club Federation of America is back of the plan.

The idea is simply this, instead of the dub golfers using unheard of language in front of the boys who caddy, he will be asked to substitute words that may uplift the boys. Such words as darn and heck are strong enough, but let it go at that.

They tell about the English golfers trying something new. Women caddies, or young girls. The idea will not spread to this country very soon in the belief of the writer. This would also be an elegant way of stopping a lot of unecessary profanity.

The recent rains have been very beneficial to the golf courses. The greens at the Muny are in wonderful condition. The course is a lot prettier this year, with a vast amount of the rough cut away and the ditches filled.

The Handicap committee consisting of Ollie West and William "Bill" Twaddle is hard at work. The golfers are urged to turn in their 18 hole qualifying card and get their handicaps.

Quite a bit of progress has been made toward beautifying the entrance to the "Muny" course. The lights for the archways at the entrance to the course have been installed. The driveway is being fixed up.

While the "Muny" course is in splendid shape now the committee is not sleeping. They are planning a number of improvements for next year it is understood. There will not likely be any more big improvements for this year.

The longest hole on the course the number 6 616 yard hole, and the "bugaboo" of the Municipal golfers may be shortened it is understood. This would be good news to the average golfer who finds the up-hill climb quite disastrous sometimes. The tee-off may be placed across where the big ditch used to be.

Plans have been completed by the committee to erect a high wire fence around the disposal plant on the fifteenth hole. This is welcomed news by the golfers who dub them into the big pool.

Looking Backward Revives Names Of "Former Greats"

There are few fighters who have had glove careers which started before they turned the fourteenth milestone of life. One of them is Patsy Brannigan who has finished as an active performer. His fighting was as colorful as his hair was red and during his ring days he fought every leading bantamweight in the world. He engaged in approximately 600 fights and never failed to please the boys who paid the cost of promotin' fighting.

Patsy's debut as a fighter came about in a peculiar manner, according to an ancient story. It appears that his brother Marty had been scheduled to box in Pittsburgh and when something went wrong Patsy pleaded for a chance to strut his stuff and the 13 year old boy was sent into the ring. The bout gave him the fistic fever and though he's through now he still loves to see 'em go.

He met Jimmy Walsh, Monte Attell, Johnny Coulon, Kid Williams, Jimmy Hill, Johnny Kilbane; in fact every leading fighter for almost a score years. His fights with Tad Griffith, Young Ziringer, Louisiana and other good boys are yet recalled by the older fans. At present Brannigan is an inspector on the payroll of the city of Pittsburgh, according to reports brought here.

Tom McMahon wasn't as young as Patsy when he left a coal mine to become a training partner to Billy Papke. After touring the country with Papke, Tom joined Jimmy Dime here and during his career fought all the best. Tom is now a plainclothesman at the Bainbridge race track.

Tony Ross, one of the pathfinders of local pugilism, left the steel mill to take tutoring from Jimmy Dime. When he entered the gym he could not talk English and was a big awkward boy. Dime developed the big boy into one of the best of the white hopes and today he doesn't bear a mark to show he was a boxer.

George Chip left the coal mines to become a blacksmith and left the forge to turn fighter. He was sent to this city and it wasn't long until the squatty Lithuanian was bowling 'em over and before he quit had won and lost the middleweight title. George is a resident here and is a local boxing bout judge.

Battling Terry was no bigger than a grasshopper when he came here under the name of Gene Rose (his right name being Eugene Peluso). He fought Johnny Kilbane and crept crawling up the ladder. Among those he met were Tommy Trimble, Tommy Kilbane, Phil Brock, Joe Welling, Packy McFarland and other prominent boys.

Tommy Jones hailed from the south side and after getting into the limelight exchanged blows with boys like Red Robinson, Knockout Sweeney and Jimmy Duffy of Lockport. Johnny Callan was one of his rivals as was Battling Terry. Tom is now the corner man at Mill and Washington streets and is a judge here.

Babe Picato was going good on the coast and came east after knocking out Freddy Andrews. He had a left hand as good as a cat's paw and fought boys like Matt Brock, George Cheney and Charley O'Connell. He beat Rocky Kansas who formerly held the lightweight title and who was succeeded by Sammy Mandell.

Joe Chip, brother to George, the only man to knock out the late Harry Greb, followed in the footsteps of his brother George. He fought Johnny Wilson, Happy Littleton and was a stiff puncher. He dropped out of the game just when he should have reaped fistic honors. Joe has been in eastern Pennsylvania for years.

Jimmy Dunn was another fighter who travelled under the banner of Jimmie Dime. He fought Abe Attell, Freddy Welsh, Harlem Tommy Murphy and all the leading boxers of his day and now is recognized as one of the most successful tutors in the country and has appeared here often as a manager.

Dan Dailey, a big chap who fought Jim Coffey, the Irish Giant, Jess Willard, Al Palzer and other white hopes drifted from the game after battling Carl Morris and other big heavyweights. It is reported he has an important foremanship in an industrial plant near Pittsburgh.

Jimmy Dime managed all the foregoing and they fought in the east, north, west and south. Ross milled in Europe and most of the other boys pranced in Australia. If Dime had these boxers today all he would need do would be to set back and clip the coupons.

As it is, he is hopeful of turning out another good heavyweight. He does not hide the belief that Jim Velanage will soon become the best heavyweight in this section. Dime says he can hit like a Dempsey and may take him to Conneaut Lake to help Max Schmeling train.

He stands six feet one, weights 200 pounds and according to Dime knows more now about boxing than many of the boys who are bidding for higher honors. Jimm, hasn't rushed the big fellow but intends to turn him loose against such boys as Roske, Pat Smith, George Panka and believes Velanage will make good.

Bessemer Noses Scarazzos, 5-4

Triple Play Is Feature Of County League Game On Monday Night

Bessemer captured its fourth victory in the Lawrence County league on Monday night at Centennial field when it nosed out the Scarazzo aggregation by a 5-4 score. The game proved one of the hardest fought and one of the most thrilling played at Centennial field.

The feature of the game was a triple play by Bessemer. The triple play was made W. Stanley to P. Nord. Stanley caught an infield fly near the second bag, touched the bag for the second put out and tossed to first for the third out.

The game was a pitching duel between Coates and D. Nord who pulled the iron man stuff on Monday night. On Saturday, Nord cooled down the strong Universals, 10-2 and last night hurled his team to another win.

The Bessemer nine scored the winning run in the seventh and final frame. For Bessemer the hitting of P. Nord featured while Byak, Calipetri and Rodgers were the best for the losers.

Peckinpaugh Has Faith In Indians

Roger Peckinpaugh, Manager Of Cleveland Team, Is Quite Optimistic

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service
Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 9.—As manager of a ball club that recently won ten straight games and has just taken two out of three from one of its three leading rivals, Roger Peckinpaugh might be pardoned today for predicting that his Cleveland team would be battling the Philadelphia Athletics for the American league lead by midsummer.

Peckinpaugh made no such claim, however, when questioned today anent the pennant chances of the Indians, in company with five other managers in the junior loop, he is ready to admit that the race has resolved itself into a duel between Philadelphia and Washington, with the A's carrying the melody and the Senators playing the accompaniment.

Ten Games Behind

The fact of the matter is that the spurts and slumps of the Cleveland club have left Peckinpaugh in a bit of a daze. As a result of the jumps of the Indians up and down the American League ladder, he feels more like an elevator boy than a manager. One gathers he would not be greatly surprised if his charges should climb to the top of the Woolworth building this afternoon and dive off in military formation.

"We're ten games behind the Athletics this morning, and that's a lot of ground to make up, summarized Peck. "With Grove and Earnshaw going the way they are, the A's are hard to stop.

"It is hard to judge where our own club will finish. All the boys except Willie Kamm are comparatively young and liable to lose confidence if we get into a slump."

JEANNETTE MAN DIES
(International News Service)

JEANNETTE, Pa., June 9.—Funeral services were being arranged today for Charles Hoffmeier, 50, pioneer Jeanette resident, who died at his home here following two paralytic strokes.

The Brooklyns, if they fail to win the National league flag, possibly may find small solace in setting a new double-play record. The National league mark for double-killings is 194, set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1928. With less than a third of the season gone the Robins have made nearly 60 double assassinations.

Dusty Cooke, Yankee left fielder, recovered after a month out of uniform, may ride the bench a little longer, as Ben Chapman, moved from the infield to the garden to replace Cooke, is doing a bang-up job of it.

Si Johnson looms as the best of the Cincinnati Reds' young crop of pitchers. Starting the season with lots of speed but little control, Si has been carefully coached by Manager Dan Howley and has learned rapidly. Dan has had Johnson studying the manner in which the better pitchers hurl and Si has picked up enough points to make him look a real prospect.

Tommy Connolly, appointed umpire-in-chief by the American league president, is the third arbiter to hold such a post. Recently Umpires Bob Emslie and Hank O'Day were retired to serve in an advisory capacity.

Joe McCarthy, pilot of those rejuvenated New York Yanks, now adds his voice to the chorus of those who believe the A's mound staff will crack under the current strain. "The number of first-class Athletic pitchers is far too limited," says Joe. "Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg have worked most of the games so far. And there are about 110 left on the schedule!"

Seventh Ward Ramblers defeated the Coaltown Ramblers on Monday night on the Coaltown field. The score was 9-4.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor.

Yale university, twice beaten in cup races this season, alone can definitely settle the question of varsity crew superiority among the rowing schools this year.

Yale can not win the "title" this year, thanks to Columbia's triumph over the Elis in the Blackwell cup regatta, May 3, and Cornell's victory over the Blue in the Carnegie cup row, May 17. But Yale can prevent Harvard from winning it—and there's the story.

The Crimson crew is one of six unbeaten eights. The others are Columbia, Cornell and Syracuse in the east and Wisconsin and Washington from the far west.

Harvard does not participate in the intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Thus, unless Yale triumphs over the Crimson in their annual dual regatta at New London, Conn., the Poughkeepsie winner must share top honors for the season with the Contabs.

Unbeaten Cornell, 1930 Poughkeepsie champion, and Syracuse, as well, lost a chance to match speed with Harvard when the Lake Cayuga regatta, an annual Ithaca, N. Y., rowing fixture, was canceled May 24 because of rough weather. These three crews with M. I. T., were entries.

Though their chance for a test with the Crimson 1931 crew is gone forever, the Cornell eight has far more important matters to be concerned over. Firstly, coming to poughkeepsie is a Columbia crew with a string of scalps, including Yale, Princeton, Massachusetts, Tech (M. I. T.) and Pennsylvania Secondly, Washington, conqueror of California, will be on hand. Thirdly, another Wisconsin unknown is entered in the classic. Fourthly, there's Syracuse, triumphant over Navy.

To ease their fears, the Big Red oarsmen have their own season's record, which is the best of the lot. Cornell has beaten a god Yale crew by two lengths, while Columbia could nose out the Elis by but a foot.

Of all sports, rowing is one of the toughest for the prophets. Many are the mishaps which can occur in the four-mile row with traffic jammed by so many entries.

However, for comparison, here are the records of the Poughkeepsie crew:

Cornell—Beat Yale, Princeton.
Columbia—Beat Yale, Princeton, M. I. T., Penn (twice).
Syracuse—Beat Navy.
Washington—Beat California.
Navy—Beat M. I. T., Penn; lost to Harvard, Syracuse.
Pennsylvania — Beat Princeton; lost to Navy, Columbia, Harvard, Yale.
M. I. T.—Lost to Navy, Columbia, Harvard, Princeton.
California—Lost to Washington.
Wisconsin—Untried.

Not to forget the private feud of Yale and Harvard at New London—here is the way these two crews compare:

Harvard—Beat Navy, Penn, M. I. T., Princeton.
Yale—Beat Princeton, Penn; lost to Columbia, Cornell.

Rod And Gun Club Members In Session

Chief Feature Of Program Is Talk By Frank Nolan

ELLWOOD CITY, June 9.—Due to the imediate absence of the president, Dr. C. M. Iseman, the vice-president, R. T. Sitler, called the regular monthly meeting of the local Rod and Gun club to order last night in the Odd Fellows hall in the Schweiger building. Dr. Iseman appeared later and took charge.

Routine matters were gone through first with the minutes being read and approved by the large gathering of over 200. The fish committee reported that 270 members of a sportsman organization of Slippery Rock wish to cooperate with the local organization in putting through some legislation for the benefit of game and fish. A committee was appointed to look into the matter.

It was announced that the club has received some 50 cans of perch, 25 of yellow perch and 25 of pike to distribute among the streams and creeks of this district.

C. A. French gave a short talk on game and upon concluding, called upon the game warden of Lawrence county, Frank L. Coen, who reported that this district has not yet received its full quota of pheasant eggs which will be supplied gradually until the quota is filled.

Following this, Vice President Sitler read some bills acted upon by the state legislature concerning fish hatcheries in Pennsylvania. The government desires to build a fish hatchery in Pennsylvania and it is rumored that it wants the state to donate the land. Mr. Sitler encouraged the members of the club to unite with other organizations in this section in bringing the federal hatchery to western Pennsylvania.

The rifle range and skeets committee reported that the grounds on the New Brighton road are in excellent condition and encouraged the members to take advantage of this and have some good practice. It was announced that there will be a state shoot affair at Bradley on June 24, 25 and 26 at which the champion trap shooter of Pennsylvania will compete.

A statement of the coon committee showed that they were able to purchase some coons which they will soon put into use.

The principal speaker of the evening was Frank Nolan of New Castle and former resident of Ellwood City for 25 years. Mr. Nolan is an old time sportsman and is well known here. He was the man to start the first sportsman club in this community and related what good sports the local people are, for he raised money to start the organization in very rapid order.

This district has had good fish for the past 15 years, asserted Mr. Nolan, and he is well pleased with the splendid work the local organization is doing in furthering the protection of game and fishing. He brought out an interesting point about the club. When a person pays his money here he is assured that the money is spent in Lawrence county. He advocated that the club stock its game farm and continue its good work.

A petition protecting reindeer was signed by a great number of local sportsmen at the conclusion of the program.

A hilarious period was introduced following the address when the two old timers, Frank Nolan and M. A. Rilley of this city city began "swapping fishing yarns", which turned out to be a free for all, and there certainly were some stories told.

The club has planned to entertain their wives and sweethearts at their regular meeting in September. A special program will be arranged for the occasion. By unanimous vote the club will continue its usual meetings during July and August. This had been discontinued last year but the club members have shown great enthusiasm and interest in the regular meetings and will continue them.

A resolution was passed by the club to reach its total membership of 500 as last year. The present membership is over 300.

Following the regular program the large audience was entertained by some interesting moving pictures of game and fishing arranged by C. A. French. Refreshments were served by a committee, which concluded the events of the evening.

If there is any sportsman organization that wishes to cooperate with the Ellwood Rod and Gun club for the purpose of attaining some goal, it may carry on negotiations through the local club's secretary, T. A. Gartley of Ellport, and be assured of a prompt reply.

"Robin Hood" Is Finally Captured

BUCHAREST, June 9—Bessarabia's "Robin Hood" has been captured by the police after years of unsuccessful hunting. He is an ex-officer of the Czar's army and acted as a "gentleman bandit." He broke into the houses of well-to-do Roumanians, stole the I. O. U.'s of poor farmers and either tore them up or returned them to the debtors. The farmers revered him as a mysterious benefactor and the police could not find him until after a long chase, because people hid him whenever he was in danger of being caught.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Quiet Price Upturn In Featureless Market

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 9.—The Mercantile stocks and a few of the Rails and Specialties were the leaders this morning in a quiet upturn of prices in a dull and featureless market. Prices were unsettled at the opening by a rush to take profits on the part of professionals and floor traders but the end of the first hour saw most of the leaders at higher price levels than at Monday's close.

In spite of the rumors of a probable downward revision of New York Central's dividend at the directors' meeting tomorrow, that stock rose 2¾ points to 82½ and sold in good volume at the best price of the forenoon. Atchison jumped 4 points to 149¼ and higher prices were quoted for Southern Pacific and Pennsylvania.

After early reaction, United States Steel moved up sharply to 93, for a gain or more than 2 points from the low of the first hour. Woolworth led a moderate rally in the "store" stocks and reached 71 for a gain of 1½ points. Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and National Biscuit sold up nearly a point. The Food stocks including Gold Dust, General Foods and Coca Cola were in good demand. Standard of New Jersey reached the best level on the general move, at 35⅞, in an effort to lead the Oils higher. Allied Chemical sold above 121 for a gain of 4 points and new gains of a point or two were recorded for Air Reduction and Du-Pont. Motor stocks and Coppers were quiet and steady.

Cotton rallied about 50 cents a bale, while Grain prices slipped off fractionally in the early trading. The best grade of investment bonds moved under the stimulus of active buying. Money was in good supply at 1½ per cent.

Pleas Are Entered In 2 Court Cases

Charles Stunkard And J. J. Daugherty Decide That They Will Not Stand Trial

Charles Stunkard and J. J. Daugherty, charged with violations of the motor code, entered pleas of nolle contendre at court this afternoon. Stunkard was charged with permitting an intoxicated man to operate his automobile and Daugherty with operating while under the influence of liquor.

Yesterday when they did not appear in court at nine a. m. an attachment was issued for them. They explained to the court this afternoon that they had no intention of not appearing, their absence being due to a misunderstanding as to the time when they should appear.

Too Good a Nurse?

Charging that Emily Ranos, pretty nurse of Chicago (above), forced her out of her own home and supplanted her in the affections of Dr. Henry J. Not quite satisfied, Mrs. Millstone also accused the attractive nurse of stealing two rings valued at $2,000.

High School Youth Writes Of Highways In Keystone State

Travel by automobile through Pennsylvania's picturesque hills and valleys in the summer months can hardly be compared to any other diversion now, since by a vigorous road-building program, the state has built hard-surfaced roads leading everywhere.

Such prompted John Fleck, senior high school English student who graduates in '33, to write on "Pennsylvania Highways and Historic Shrines." He submitted the manuscript with others and judges ranked it the best. It was read by the writer at a recent assembly program.

Of the smooth highways, with their points of interests for strangers, he wrote in his essay:

While Pennsylvania's wonderful highway system of shimmering white concrete and smooth, durable macedam is a thing of beauty in itself and a monument to engineering prowess, its real value lies in the fact that it unlocks the treasure stores of the entire commonwealth by making them accessible to every person.

Transportation preceded communication in the progress of civilization and both of these vital factors awaited a highway system, albeit crude in the early days, before they came into being.

Plenty of Roads

There are over 12,000 miles of hard surfaced highways in Pennsylvania serving ten million people scattered over 45,000 square miles of territory. Once built they must be maintained and kept open to travel 365 days each year. This requires a small army of men to make repairs and keep the edges as well as the surface clean and the berm free from grass and weeds. In winter the department's snow removal equipment is put in service at the beginning of a storm and keeps pace with it, plowing and cleaning the roads, and keeping them open for travel. Icy grades and slopes are cindered to prevent skidding.

The estimated value of Pennsylvania's highway system alone is over four hundred million dollars, and the saving to motorists in hard surfaced highways over earth roads on the primary system alone is estimated at $60,000,000 a year. But to the people it is more than a matter of dollars and cents.

These improved highways offer rapid and comfortable transportation to centers of our natural resources and manufacturing industries, they promote business interests, make possible better school facilities and attract thousands of tourists.

Likened To Paradise

A combination of roads, scenery and history make Pennsylvania the paradise for American motorists. Some states have good roads with little scenery and no history. Others may have history but lack roads and scenery.

A map of what lies eastward of the superb Susquehanna trail, which cuts Pennsylvania from New York to the Mason and Dixon line, will show anybody a panorama of matchless valleys, swiftly flowing rivers, innumerable smaller streams, miles of forested mountains, the finest farm region in the world, and the chief places where important American history was made.

Markings of the Mason and Dixon line are themselves an historic curiosity. It is by far the most famous of all American boundaries.

Three generations of fighting, bloodshed, legal battles and appeals to kings ended in the line which is universally named to distinguish north from south in the United States.

Entering the Allegheny valley you approach the greatest steel center in the world. Years before Washington had erected Fort Necessity which was later captured by the French. Fort Duquesne, a scene of many battles, stands at the point where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers meet. Driving on you will pass Fort Pitt which was built by the English and Americans under the instructions of Pitt, a great statesman.

Harrisburg and Beyond

Harrisburg, physically as politically, is a central point in Pennsylvania from which important things start. Roll in your car from the State Capitol through the Lebanon valley and what do you see?

First, an agricultural domain hardly rivaled anywhere. You pass famous Cornwall, for a century America's greatest known iron mine and scene of romance as well as industry.

The oldest tunnel on the American continent is near Lebanon and through it passed the Old Union canal. So on to Reading, metropolis of the upper Schuylkill valley.

Hallowed ground is close by in rural Berks. There dwelt the grandfather of Abraham Lincoln. And close by the Lincoln homestead is that of the Boones, where the boy Daniel roamed the woods with his rifle before founding a commonwealth in Kentucky.

At Reading most travelers may steer their cars down the Schuylkill to Philadelphia. For those who elect to travel east instead, there is a glorious ride to Allentown.

From Allentown down the Lehigh valley to Easton, you bump into history at every milestone. The sect of the Moravian church in the new world is at Bethlehem.

The roads in this whole region are as nearly perfect as engineering skill and money could make them. And the combination of hills, cities, wooded mountains, industries, rivers, colleges and historic recollections make it an endless delight to all intelligent travelers.

In The Northeast

North of Easton, Pennsylvania presents one of Eastern America's most classic natural wonders. There the limestone mountain was cleft squarely in two by the rushing river which at the famous Delaware Water Gap is held in a narrow defile of remarkable scenic effects.

I say that Pennsylvania is divided naturally for the delight of the autoists. The picturesque Wyoming valley is quite as distinct and fully as romantic, both in scenery and history, as are the Lehigh, Delaware, Schuylkill, and Susquehanna valleys.

There your auto rolls over the realm of anthracite. And that realm of anthracite in Northeastern Pennsylvania is far more valuable than all the gold and all the silver ever mined in the United States.

The old Wyalusing trail is redolent of Indian forays, while the ghosts of massacred hundreds seem to gather yet around old Forty Fort.

But the chief merit of this part of Pennsylvania as a touring region is its diversity. Scenes change so swiftly you do not grow weary.

Mountains? Yes, but they do not require days to cross. Level reaches—Yes, Lancaster unrolls the prize agricultural map or earth, but it is not an endless and dreasy plain.

All experienced travelers agree that the most beautiful suburban scenery in the world is that which stretches like a great bow around Philadelphia. It rivals the best in rural England.

Here trees, landscape gardening, beautiful architecture, both modern and Colonial type, great homes, bridges, parks and perfect roads make motoring a dream.

Naturally this first settled portion of Pennsylvania is redolent with history. Valley Forge, the Mecca of all patriots, Brandywine, and Germantown offer a bewildering variety to the man in the car.

Only the blind can now cross Pennsylvania in a motor car and not see in every rod of the way something of interest or profit to the eye.

Anniversary Of Fire 55 Years Ago Which Razed City Building

Last night was the 55th anniversary of one of the most destructive fires in the history of this community, although it is probable that there are few people who remember it.

About midnight June 8, 1876, fire was discovered in a small frame building on East street, located between the then almost completed city building, corner of Washington and East streets, and the fire department building, corner of East street and Sycamore way. It was used as a tool house.

Immediately following the discovery of the fire, the steam pumper of the Eagle Hose company and other fire apparaus of the city was rushed to the scene. The Eagle pumper was taken to the wharf on the banks of the Neshannock creek on what is the present site of the Rohrer gun shop and everything was ready to start pumping water on the burning building, when it broke down and never a drop of water was available to fight the blaze.

The result was that the fire spread to the new city building still in the process of completion and also the then comparatively new fire department building at East street and Sycamore way.

The fire burned all night until late the next morning and when it had finally burned itself out, there was not a stick, stone or any part of the new city building or the fire department building left standing, except the brick wall at the Washington street and East street corner.

This proved to be of such sturdy construction that it could not even be pulled down and was incorporated in the new city building, which the city constructed following the fire.

The west wall of the city building fell following the fire and crushed and destroyed the frame structure adjoining it and occupied by the store of David Winternitz. There is today a brick building on the site of this store, which bears the name Winternitz near its top.

The building destroyed had been constructed at a considerable cost and was one of the finest municipal buildings in this section. It had a fine tower at the Washington and East street corner, which was designed to hold the fire department bell. The building was not complete, having no windows and much other finishing to be done. It had been constructed by the firm of Preston & Vogan, one of the big contracting firms of the day.

A $20,000 bond issue was made following its destruction and the present city building constructed. It, however, did not have the fine tower that had graced the original.

Announcement is made today by the Spur Distributing Co., of the opening of a new gasoline station by them adjoining the Love Coal Company, 740 South Mill street.

Spur stations are located in spots where a sidetrack is available and the public can be conveniently served. Huge storage tanks are put in place, capable of holding several cars of gasoline. The company thus saves the wholesale and trucking costs, which they in turn pass on to the motoring public.

The gas distributed by them is shipped from Arkansas and is a high quality, high-test gasoline.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Beaver Falls had a distinguished guest last night, and some of us went down to listen. The guest was Secretary of Highways Samuel S. Lewis, a two fisted, outspoken sort of gentleman who knows how to say yes and no in language you can understand.

His English is not always perfect and his delivery may some times smack of the amateur, but customers you know what he says and what he means. And after all, the ordinary citizen can overlook a lot of faults in oratorical technique if he knows what the speaker is saying.

The occasion down at the Falls was the annual City-Country Get Together, the night when the farmer and the banker sit side by each and swap experiences. Some big shot is always invited to be the speaker and Lewis got the nod this time.

The idea back of the annual banquet is a real one. After all what hurts the farmer hurts the city fellow and vice versa. What's good for for one is good for the other and a closer bond of sympathy and understanding between the two is going to help both.

If you're driving the lower road to the Beaver Valley now, you can't help but notice the gardens that are laid out in the district between the Pennsylvania crossing and the Mahoning River bridge.

That ground down there is so rich that if you planted billiard balls you would probably reap a crop of pool tables. Dark and rich and clear of stones, it promises a bumper crop and already the potatoes, and tomatoes, and beans and corn are high.

Men and women alike are out after supper, planting and cultivating and weeding and if you want a picture of what a garden should look like early in June, take a ride down some night.

Something else down in that district. There is a triangular piece of ground where the road out of New Castle joins the road to Mt. Jackson. For a number of years it has been an ugly hole, grown rank with weeds and tall grasses, just an eyesore.

Just now there is some filling being put into it, ashes and what not. Seems to me it would be a smart idea to fill it up level, put on a few inches of top soil, and plant it in shrubbery. A little barberry hedge, some evergreens and a few perennials and an ugly triangle would be converted into a beauty spot.

Hundreds of motorists get their first idea of New Castle at this point. Wouldn't it be fair enough to give them a pleasing view? Triangles such as this were made for beautification. The triangle at Butler and East Washington is an example. This one in the seventh ward is larger, and offers more opportunities for planting.

Someone has suggested that it would be a good place for a monument of some sort. Fair enough. There are a lot of folks for whom a monument could be erected, not a large one perhaps, and it would fill the center of the triangle nicely. Someday some organization is going to get together and give John Carlysle Stewart a break. He was the founder of this city, the pioneer that trekked through the Indian country in 1798, and thus far there isn't a school named in his honor or a monument to show that he was ever here.

And while monuments are on the pan, have you noticed that all the corner bolts are out of the bronze plate on that bowlder near Moravia. Souvernir hunters no doubt have carted them away just to hand on the mantle and show the kiddies.

That placque commemorates sacrifice and devotion and fortitude in establishing the first white church west of the Alleghenies. For some sourenir goof to cart off the bolts from the corners is rather small business. Fortunately the bowlder is too large to be taken away in an automobile or it would be gone too.

Don Shaner want to know how a superstitious fellow can get through the postoffice lobby. It's filled with ladders used by the cleaners and you can either walk under them or else.
